- Admission to the university does not guarantee that students will be admitted to the business program of their choice. Students should contact the university's College/Department of Business to get more detailed information on the program's course-grade and admissions requirements.
- Completion of the 60-hour framework assures the transfer of the designated coursework to one of the programs listed above at an institution offering the program. The additional institutional-specific courses listed will only be accepted toward the degree program at the institution indicated if the 60-hour framework has been completed.
- Students are required to ensure that, prior to enrollment, the four-year institution receives an official, final transcript.
- 100/200-level KCTCS courses outside this transfer framework will not be considered equivalent to a 300/400-level Business course at a Kentucky four-year institution. Such courses will only count toward a baccalaureate degree if the receiving institution validates the course.
