

Q: How many credits will I have to complete at Connecticut College in order to graduate?

This depends on how many credits transfer in from your previous institution, but you must complete half (or 64) of your 128 credits on campus at Connecticut College in order to graduate. A typical course at Connecticut College is 4 credits.

Back to Top »

Q: How much of my credit will transfer?

You must complete 128 credits in order to graduate. In addition, you must complete at least two full years of academic work in residence (full-time status), including one semester of senior year, and you must earn at least 64 Connecticut College credits (earned at the College or in Connecticut College programs abroad.)

Once the Office of the Registrar receives your official college transcripts, the Registrar will complete a credit evaluation to determine which classes will transfer.

Transfer credit is awarded for all courses with grades of C and above that have an approximate counterpart in the Connecticut College curriculum. The credit evaluation will also determine which transfer courses will count toward your General Education requirements.

Check out the course catalog to see what courses are offered at Connecticut College. If possible, please send course descriptions for each course you wish to transfer to assist the registrar's office in the review process. For more information about the transfer credit process, contact Assistant Registrar Frances Foley at ffol@conncoll.edu, or 860-439-2066.

There are certain courses from other schools for which we typically do not award transfer credit. These include: elementary and intermediate algebra, pre-calculus, trigonometry, desktop publishing and most business courses.