

Transferring Credits

Once we have your completed application and transcript(s), and have determined your eligibility for admission, we will do a preliminary evaluation of your transfer credits. Credits and grades for college-level courses completed at any institution may be transferable as long as WVU offers the subject area. For example, WVU offers history courses and will therefore accept all history courses from accredited institutions (slight variations may occur).

Transfer credits from two-year community colleges and junior colleges are limited to a maximum of 72 hours of lower-division credit. Please be reminded that only credit from lower-division courses are accepted from two-year colleges. All institutions must be accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, or by other regional accrediting associations accepted by WVU.

We will translate your credit into WVU equivalents once you have been admitted. Your academic college or school will determine how, and/or whether your courses are applied toward completing your degree. In some cases, upper-division courses may not apply toward your degree.

You can access our Transfer Equivalency System to see how your courses will transfer.
